

We will be honoring two individuals for their interfaith leadership:

Dr. David Oughton

David Charles Oughton, Ph.D. has served on the Board of Interfaith Partnership of Greater St. Louis since 2007 as president, vice president, secretary, and chair of many committees. He was a teacher at Saint Louis University and several other schools, participated in all of the modern Parliaments of the World's Religions, and started St. Louis' Dialogue Group of the World's Religions and Philosophies as well as other interfaith events in our community.

Rabbi Elizabeth Hersh

Rabbi Elizabeth B. Hersh is the Senior Rabbi at Temple Emanuel, a reform congregation. She serves as Chair for the Michael and Barbara Newmark Institute for Human Relations at the Jewish Community Relations Council of St. Louis (JCRC), and on various Boards in the community. Rabbi Hersh is a blogger for the St. Louis Jewish Light and has twice received the Belin Outreach Award for work with interfaith families.
